“Transcripts are a viable artifact- but they are reports for academics because they know their university programs. Yet, a third party does not understand it and the titles to courses are not clear.”

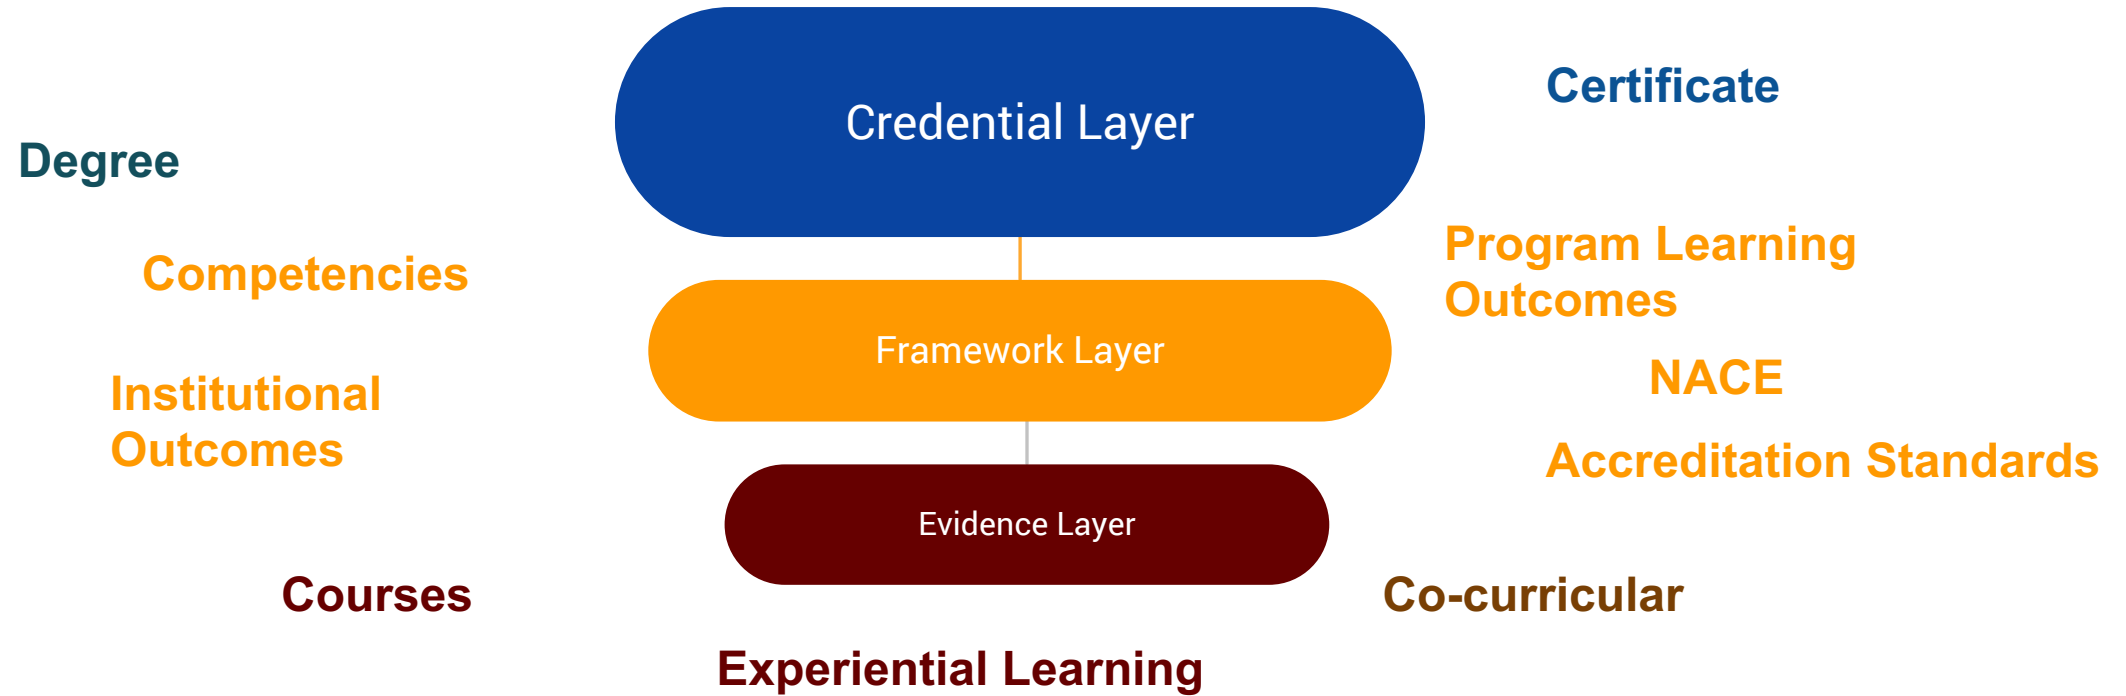

Thomas Black

University Registrar & Assistant Provost,
Johns Hopkins University

Two sample university transcripts from Johns Hopkins University. The left transcript is titled "UNIVERSITY NAME AND LOGO HERE" and shows a student's academic record with columns for Dept., Course No., Title, Units Attempted, Units Earned, Grade, and Grade Points. It includes a table of courses for Fall 1985, Spring 1986, and Fall 1986, along with cumulative totals. The right transcript is titled "OUR SCHOOL NAME" and shows a student's academic record with columns for Course Number, Type of Class, and Grade. It includes a table of courses for Fall 1985, Spring 1986, and Fall 1986, along with cumulative totals. Both transcripts include a signature of the Registrar and a stamp of the Registrar's Office.

Inside CLR...

The AACRAO Comprehensive Learner Record (CLR) Data Integrations Workgroup (2018) has identified the following information as components that could comprise a CLR:

- ⇒ Student academic record
- ⇒ Learning outcomes (also called skills, competencies, etc.)
- ⇒ Learner artifacts (dissertations, thesis, certificates, work product, etc.)
- ⇒ Student employment history (and associated evidence of work performance)
- ⇒ Student activities (role, responsibility, accomplishments, etc.)
- ⇒ Internships ⇒ Research activities ⇒ Portfolios ⇒ Study Abroad
- ⇒ Service learning projects, civic engagements, honors activities
- ⇒ Licensures and certifications ⇒ Volunteer activities (role, responsibility, contributions)
